FRANKFORT, KY., SATURDAY, AUGUST 3, 1895.

NO. 48

The Findings of the Court.

The findings of the general court martial held in this city several weeks ago to try four members of the Second Regiment upon various charges were made public the first of the week. Private William Miller, of Company D, of Lexington, was fined $50 for failure to attend encampment; Private Albert Walters, of same company, was fined $8 for not attending drill, and Private Joseph Stivers, also of same company, was given three days in jail for the same offense. Private Kidder Woodson, of the McCreary Guards, this city, for disobedience of orders and failure to attend drill, was given ten days in jail and fined $4. Governor Brown reduced the fine in the first case to $10; in the third he changed the punishment to a fine of $3, and in the last he remitted the jail sentence, but did not interfere with the finding in the second.

Teachers' Institute.

The Annual Teachers' Institute will be held at the Court House in this city, beginning on Monday, August 10th, and continuing through the week. Miss Lucy Pattie, the County Superintendent, has secured the services of Prof. W. E. Lumley, of Pulaski, Tenn., to conduct the proceedings and a very attractive programme will be prepared, interspersed with music, readings, &c. The law requires every teacher holding a county certificate to attend the Institute and the time of holding it has been fixed so that its sessions will not interfere with their school duties.

The King Fishers.

Messrs. Chas. C. Furr, Richard Morris and George L. Payne left Thursday for Cincinnati to join the other members of the King Fisher Club, and went thence to the Manistique Lakes, in northern Michigan, where they will go into camp and remain for several weeks. The party this year will be much larger than usual and a pleasant time is anticipated. The lakes, three in number, are only about a mile apart and the party expects to fish in all of them during their stay. This is the only outing taken during the year by the gentlemen above named and is always looked forward to with anticipations of great pleasure.

Bring in Your Petitions.

All persons throughout the county who have been circulating signatures petitions asking the County Court to order a vote to be taken upon the free turnpike question, are requested to bring in their petitions on Monday and have them at the county judge's office on that morning so that the matter may be presented for consideration at the meeting of the County Court.

Larger Still.

Mr. Z. Taylor Parentt, of the Bridgeport neighborhood, has brought to this office a sample lot of his crop of onions, three of them weighed two and a quarter pounds, and also threw in a peck of delightful pears which were greatly enjoyed. This is splended season for vegetables but the onions are the finest of that particular variety we have seen.

Fort Hill Sold.

Prof. W. H. Mayo, as administrator of Tabb Smith, deceased, sold on Monday to Mr. L. B. Marshall the Fort Hill property for two thousand dollars.

THE PURPOSE OF EDUCATION.

Some Obstacles Met in Accomplishing That Purpose.

GEO. ROBBINS.

In the light of the preceding papers of this series, we feel justified in making the statement that one-half of the teachers of this country are in a state of arrested development. When one's education ends anywhere along the line of primary effort he is unfitted for the position of teacher, because his attempt to teach can end in no higher results than his own efforts to acquire have reached. If one's education has ended anywhere along the line of high school effort he is still unfitted for the teacher's profession, because he is still in the plane of mechanical thinking, and can impart no more than he contains. These have the reputation of teachers, but are lacking in those elements which constitute a teacher of high character.

Such an education is one-sided and is inimical to the best and highest interests of humanity. The very best corrective for this one-sided education is found in college education. (The term college is not intended to include those abortions which are the progeny of the diseased brain of an educational empiric.) The purpose of the college is to free the individual from the shackles of the lower, those bonds which tend toward keeping him moving in the same direction and in the same channel. It enables him to command the services of the lower, instead of being subject to it.

There are but two ways other than the regular college course which will enable the individual to acquire character as a teacher. One is through persistent, personal effort made independently of the schools, the other is by attendance and study in a good Normal School. The latter is by far the better of the two. The legitimate work of the Normal School is to give its students a college training plus a professional training. This it does as far as it can, but it is hampered by the clog of arrested development I have already mentioned. It is a great pity that the Normal School should be compelled to descend to the plane of mechanical effort and complete the work of the high school before it can take up its own. Its effort should be upon the plane of ethical insight. When it can do its legitimate work only, its position will be beside the college and the theological seminary. God speed the day when this educational millenium shall begin and all charlatany, chicanery and incompetency be relegated to the doom they so richly deserve, oblivion.

To Cleanse the System.

Effectually yet gently, when constive or bilious, or when the blood is impure or sluggish, to permanently cure habitual constipation, to awaken the kidneys and liver to a healthy activity, without irritating or weakening them, to dispel headaches, colds or fevers use Syrup of Figs.

Meeting Closed.

The series of meetings which were begun on Friday of last week at the Court House by Rev. Geo. O. Barnes, closed Thursday evening, and Mr. Barnes and his wife and daughter left for Lexington. Large crowds attended each service, the celebrated preacher was as interesting as ever and those who went to hear him saw him leave with regret.

Mrs. Martha Wilkerson and daughter, Miss Sue, have returned home from a visit of two or three months to friends in Union county.

The damp weather of the past two weeks has caused considerable slight ailments in our midst.

The random shooting of guns and pistols by some in our burg should be prohibited. On more than one occasion balls have passed in close proximity to members of both Mrs. S. E. Featherston's and C. H. Parent's families. Now, boys, give us a rest on such carelessness.

Mr. Ben Sullivan, who has been in the hospital in Covington for the benefit of his health during the past several months, has returned home, and we are glad to announce, considerably improved.

Miss Nannie Goins will return to school in Philadelphia this fall.

The yield of wheat is small, prices low and much of that yet unthreshed is sprouting in the shock. Corn and tobacco look well, while the gardens and orchards are full to overflowing.

Mrs. Sophie O'Donnell has removed to Eminence after nineteen years' residence among us. Mrs. O'Donnell says that in all these long years she has not found cause to complain of any of her neighbors, and we can all return the compliment with many God-bless-yous.

Wat. Hardin or Bill Bradley may be Governor, Taylor or Violett may be representative, but Our Joe will be Senator, and the Courier-Journal may as well cease trying to conceal his success in her news columns. Joe is the child of the people, and they resent the persecutions of the gold-bought daily papers of Louisville. The heavens may fall, but Joe Blackburn will be Kentucky's next Senator.

When a mother teaches her little child that he is wiser than his elders and should do as he pleases, then bid farewell to that mother's fondest hopes and that child's brightest prospects.

We hear a great deal of talk about "flat" money. The man who thinks that there is any other kind of money but "flat" money is a fool. It is the flat or decree of government that makes it money, and her fiat may be placed upon gold or silver. If it is found to be convenient to place this fiat on iron or tin it then becomes money. Take the fiat off of gold and it is no longer money. The bugs talk of intrinsic value of gold. It has far less intrinsic or real internal essential value than iron or steel. Take off the government's fiat and it is good to make but very few articles of use, but iron or steel can be made into articles of real value innumerable. The fiat of Uncle Sam, however, says gold shall be money, so gold is made valuable because it is given a fiat and not a commercial value.

The same may be given to silver, and the man who does not wish to be considered an ignoramus had best bush about fiat money and intrinsic values, for we repeat, and defer successful contradiction, that there is not now, never was, nor never will be any other money.

There must be the fiat of some government to make it money, whether it be gold, silver, iron, copper or paper, and that fiat will make money of either.

FRANKFORT ROUNDABOUT

FRANKFORT, AUGUST 3, 1895.

To the People of Franklin County.

As it is well known to the majority of the people of this State that the 29th National Encampment of the G. A. R., will be held in Louisville, from September 9th to 14th, being the first ever held south of the Mason and Dixon line, and as "Old Kentucky's" reputation for hospitality is at stake, it devolves upon the shoulders of the entire State to lend their assistance in entertaining the vast crowd of visitors (estimated to be between 300,000 and 400,000).

It is the intention of the committee to entertain these old soldiers with an old-fashioned Kentucky Barbecue, and we respectfully ask the people of Franklin county, whose reputation for liberality cannot be questioned, to contribute a small mite to this grand undertaking, either of beesves, mutton or shoates. The Barbecue Committee estimates that they will feed 100,000 people.

A special date will be designated when to send these contributions, as each railroad is to start a special train over their respective lines to collect the contributions. All we ask the people of this county, is their earnest support in this matter.

Commencing Sunday, May 13th, the F. F. V. Limited will leave Cincinnati daily at 12:20 noon, arriving at Washington at 7:40 a.m., Baltimore 9:00 a.m., Philadelphia 11:20 a.m. and New York 1:40 p.m. The train will consist of Composite Car, Elegant Day Coach, with Smoking Compartment, Dining Car, Pullman Sleeping Cars of the latest and most improved design, and an Observation Car. Emphasis is especially placed on the Observation Car. Built by the Pullman Company from Chesapeake and Ohio plans, the F. F. V. Observation Cars serve their purpose better than any others that have ever been constructed.

As the F. F. V. Limited is the only train having an Observation Car attached, it necessarily follows that the Chesapeake and Ohio Ry alone has scenery interesting enough to demand an Observation Car. The F. F. V. Limited is the only train running through from Cincinnati to New York that enables business men to transact business in Cincinnati one day and New York the next. It is the only train for Jersey City Coast resorts, which are reached by the F. F. V. at dinner time instead of in the evening. It is the only train that enables business men to transact business in Cincinnati one day and reach Washington for breakfast the next morning. It is the most desirable train for New England resorts, connections being made in the Union Depot in Washington with the Colonial Express running through to Boston which reaches New Haven 4:10 p.m., New London 5:30 p.m., Providence 7:15 p.m., and Boston 8:30 p.m. The F. F. V. is the only modern train lighted throughout with Electricity, carrying a Dining Car and an Observation Car.

The Washington and Atlantic Express, also an Electric Lighted Vestibuled train, will leave Cincinnati at 7:00 p.m., reaching Washington 2:40 p.m. and Old Point Comfort 6:00 p.m. Connection is made at Washington with the Boston Express or the Limited, reaching New York about 9:00 p.m. At Norfolk connection is made with the Old Dominion Steamship Line, reaching New York 3:00 p.m. the next day.

Base Ball.

The Frankforts and the Maysvilles played two games of base ball at Thorn Hill Park on Monday and Tuesday.

The first game was a pretty one from a scientific standpoint, although the home boys were a trifle outclassed at the bat. Stagg pitched a good game, all things considered, but the heavy hitters of the visiting team found his curves often enough to earn two of their six runs while Reiman was a Chinese puzzle to the locals.

In the fourth inning, with the bases full and but one man out for the visitors, Sutherland hit a long fly to left, of which Dick VanDeerve made a running backward one-hand catch that "brought down the house." It was the prettiest play ever seen at Thorn Hill.

Hall hit a slow grounder toward third which Frank Barret handled nicely, but McGann having a long start, beat the ball to the plate and the game was over.

The fine game put up by the local team against the Maysvilles encouraged the "fans" to hope they could give something of an argument to the Louisvilles, the League tail-enders, and a large crowd was present at Thorn Hill on Thursday to see them try it. Both the crowd and the home team were disappointed, however, for while VanDerveer pitched a very good game under the circumstances and was not hit at all hard, his support seemed to have a case of "rattles." In one inning three scores crossed the plate without a hit being made. Douglas again caught for the home team, while the Louvilles had their regular team on the field, with McCreevy and Zuhner on the pins. The score was 14 to 1, and the solitary score of the Frankforts was a present from Carke and O'Brien. Four hits were made off McCreevy and twelve off VanDerveer.

Pen Merchant is still doing good work for the Greenville, Mississipi, team. In a series of games between the Greenville and Columbus, Miss., team, which is semi-professional, he pitched several of the games. In the one on Saturday he held the Columbus down to two hits and the Greenville won by a score of 17 to 2. In another game in which he did the twirling the Columbians got only one ball outside of the diamond, the infidels of the Greenville having fifteen chances all of which accepted, the score 1 to 2. Tenley also made a standing at the close of the game hit and McGann went to third, 9 to 2 in favor of Greenville.

MR. DARSIE ABROAD.*Constantinople.

(From the Christian Guide.)

The Ausrian-Lloyd Steamer "Hungaria" brought us from Athens to this center of the Sultan's dominions, after a sail of two days, Friday afternoon, June first. The first day out we encountered head-winds and rough seas on the Aegean, and many of us maintained our unbroken record against sea sickness only by keeping closely to our berths. It was a little amusing afterwards to find out how many members of our party could have gotten up if they had wanted to, but who having been on such a considerable strain for many days past greatly needed rest! But I am free to say that I stayed in bed because I had to. Three different efforts to arise satisfied me on that point.

Entering the Dardanelles however at the close of that trying day the waves decreased in size and we were on our feet again, all of us sufficiently rested! Historic memories thicken around us as we enter these famous Straits. A little back we had looked out on the plains of Troy and recalled Homer's heroes as with varying fortunes they battered at the walls of that city for ten long years. Now we note the narrow place where Xerxes and Alexander constructed their bridges of boats to cross between Europe and Asia, and where also Leander and Lord Byron made themselves a name by swimming from one continent to the other. The distance across at that point is only about one mile through the average breadth of the Dardanelles is about three miles. Frowning fortresses on either bank proclaim that all who pass through these narrow straits do so by the Sultan's permission. But on we speed unmolested into the Sea of Marmora, and in the afternoon of the second day, we catch our first entrancing glimpse of Constantinople (which shows at its best from the sea), round Seraglio Point, drop anchor in the port of Galata, and in ten minutes are in our quarters at the Hotel Byzance. Wonderful for situation is this old historic city. It is a gate-way both by land and sea, and its possession is the key to the possession of a large part of two continents. I am not surprised that Russia has long had her eye on this city and has broken the tenth commandment in regard to it many times.

The Sea of Marmora laves it on one side and the straits of Bosphorus on the other, while the Golden Horn—an inlet of the sea and a magnificent harbor—pierces it through the center. The old part of Constantinople, called Stamboul, lies south-west of the Golden Horn, and is the city proper. On the other side are the more modern and European portions of the city, called Galata and Pera. The three cities unite to form a Constantinople, and together embrace a population of nearly a million. Across the Bosphorus lies a considerable Asiatic suburb known as Scutari, but which is chiefly noted as the scene of Florence Nightingale's tender ministries during the Crimean war, and as the location of the English Cemetery where sleep the English soldiers who fell in that war.

Two pontoon bridges across the Golden Horn connect Stamboul with Galata and Pera. They divide the Horn into three separate harbors. The upper one contains the Ottoman war-ships, the middle one between the bridges th-sailing craft, while below the first bridge are the steamers and mail-boats. The scene from the bridges is always a busy one and you never weary of the endless variety it affords. But nothing interested me more than what I saw on the bridges. The population of Constantinople is of the most mixed character. Every nation of earth is represented. Europe, Asia, Africa, not to speak of America and Oceania, are here looking you in the face. The throng that rushes by you is equalled only by the dive city of races, colors and costumes. The pictures you get on the lower bridge of the Golden Horn are as brilliant and changeable as any you ever saw in a Kaleidoscope. No point of observation about the city equals it. One hour spent there will tell you more about the peculiarities of the population than half a dozen spent anywhere else. In truth you are seeing Constantinople more easily and rapidly than it can be seen in any other way. I never before felt my linguistic poverty so keenly. A man who goes to this city without knowing at least three languages, English, French and Turkish, will be taken at a great disadvantage. He might possibly get along with English and French, but with English alone he is very helpless. Every guide he employs cheats him; every shop-keeper regards him as legitimate game, while the perplexities he undergoes, and the mental wear and tear to which he is subjected in getting about, all conduce at times to make him very tired, and very willing to depart when the hour arrives.

The most famous Mosque in the world is that of St. Sophia, and the next most famous is that of Suleiman the Magnificent. A visit to them is, of course, on the program of every tourist who comes to this city. The Suleiman mosque is far more pleasing in point of beauty than the St. Sophia, but it bears no comparison to it in point of historical suggestion. St. Sophia's was originally built by Constantine the Great, and dedicated to the Eternal Wisdom. It was twice destroyed by fire, and when rebuilt for the third time by the Emperor Justinian, such gorgeous richness was lavished upon its construction that when finished Justinian exclaimed, "Solomon, I have surpassed thee." Angels themselves were said to have given the plan. And, in carrying it out, every famous temple in the world was despoiled to adorn the new edifice. Stones and pillars were brought from Jerusalem, from the hundred-gated Thebes, from the temple of Diana at Ephesus, from the temple of the Sun at Baalbec, from the Parthenon at Athens from the temple of Phobus at Delos. "The whole earth was ransacked for hidden stores—white marble from Phrygia, marble veined with rose from Laconia, blue from Lydia, black from Thessaly, granite from Egypt, porphyry from Sardis." These are the walls that have echoed the eloquence of Chrysostom—who is said to have preached with such power that he emptied the theatres of their audiences.

When the Turks captured the city, St. Sophia's was the scene of a hideous massacre. The Christians who had taken refuge there, were butchered in cold blood, and the sacred edifice was pillaged of everything of value in it. But just at the moment when the torch was about to be applied, Mohammed II, the Conqueror, entered on horseback and declared that the church had now become a mosque, and that henceforth the Crescent should displace the Cross, and the great building be dedicated to the worship of Allah. And so it remains to this day. Hither the Sultan's army has long been accustomed to come each Friday (the Mohammedan Sunday) to pay their devotions, and the military pageant attending this weekly procession has for many years been one of the chief sights of the city. If we were denied the coveted glimpse of his majesty at St. Sophia's by our late arrival, we were gratified a few days later by seeing him in a street parade which opened the annual Mohammedan festival known as the Bairam. Early one morning we drove to a spot where he was to pass, and after standing on weary feet for an hour and a half, our curiosity was well rewarded. The streets were lined on both sides with double ranks of soldiers. Crowds of citizens filled the sidewalks. By and by we heard cheers in the distance. They came nearer and nearer. They meant the approach of the Sultan's carriage. But every cheer came from a soldier's throat, and was given because commanded. The silence of the citizens was something awful and ominous to me. They seemed to feel that their ruler was their enemy. And such a face as we saw when the Sultan passed by! It was pale, thin, anxious, fearful. The Sultan is a small, grizzled man of fifty-six. He never drives along the street without continual apprehension of the assassin's bullet. Most of his predecessors have died with their boots on, and he expects to go in the same way. Opposite him in the carriage sat Osman Pasha, the great Turkish general and the hero of Plevna. His fine, large presence may have in part made the presence of the Sultan seem so inferior. Behind the royal carriage came other carriages with princes of the blood in them—little, pale fellows with pinched features, who looked as if a good puff of wind would blow them away. We returned to our hotel quite pleased with having seen so well what we went to see, but with a decided preference that Hamid II, should be Sultan of Turkey rather than we. It is but fair to say, however, that those who ought to know affirm the present Sultan to have surpassed thee."

Angels themselves were said to have given the plan. And, in carrying it out, every famous temple in the world was despoiled to adorn the new edifice. Stones and pillars were brought from Jerusalem, from the hundred-gated Thebes, from the temple of Diana at Ephesus, from the temple of the Sun at Baalbec, from the Parthenon at Athens from the temple of Phobus at Delos. "The whole earth was ransacked for hidden stores—white marble from Phrygia, marble veined with rose from Laconia, blue from Lydia, black from Thessaly, granite from Egypt, porphyry from Sardis." These are the walls that have echoed the eloquence of Chrysostom—who is said to have preached with such power that he emptied the theatres of their audiences.

When the Turks captured the city, St. Sophia's was the scene of a hideous massacre. The Christians who had taken refuge there, were butchered in cold blood, and the sacred edifice was pillaged of everything of value in it. But just at the moment when the torch was about to be applied, Mohammed II, the Conqueror, was active and capable, to rise or get ahead in the Sultan's dominions. The iron hand of this oppressive rule holds him down. And if maddened by the tyranny under which he groans, he and others make resistance to it, their doom is sealed. Their resistance becomes the pretext for bloody massacres like that which, during the past year, has sent thousands of helpless Armenians to their graves.

But more of this in my next. It will require another letter to finish my account of the Sultan and his capital city.

GEORGE DARSIE.

Small Beginnings

Make great endings sometimes. Aliments that are apt to consider trivial often grow through neglect, into atrocious maladies, dangerous to themselves and productive of others. It is the disregard of the earlier indications of ill health which leads to the establishment of all sorts of diseases. For instance, there are certain disorders incident to the sea, or, such as malaria and rheumatism, against which it is always desirable to fortify the system after exposure to the elements. Cold, damp and miasma are surely counteracted by Hosteller's Stomach Bitters. After you have taken a dose of these bitter balsams, have a pint of Hosteller's Stomach Bitters directly afterwards. These bitter balsams, directly after a meal, liver complaint, kidney and bladder trouble, nervous and debilitated it is the most desirably effective. A pint of these bitter balsams, a wineglassful before meals promotes appetite.

Our market for burley tobacco this week has been very poor, no export sales. All grades of burley with high color have been taken at satisfactory prices to sellers, and the market has shown somewhat more strength on this type. Sales have also been rather poor and scattered for the better grades of red leaf; otherwise the market remains about as it has been for 3 weeks past. The reports which reach us from the country are to the effect that in many localities the tobacco has been exhausted and considerable damage has been done to the growing crop.

JOHN T. BUCKLEY, ST. CLAIR STREET.

Good Fishing But Poor Fun.

Messrs. Stephen Black, A. W. Macklin and Rev. E. S. Alderman, of this county, left last week for Cumberland river, intending to camp and fish for several weeks, but returned home Tuesday evening in a rather demoralized condition. They found the fishing splendid, but Mr. Alderman, who had only a few days before arisen from a sick bed, where had been confined for weeks with fever, was sick all the time the party was gone and confined to bed the greater portion of the time, and on Tuesday Mr. Black, while climbing around on the river bank, was so unfortunate as to receive a severe fall which spoiled all his fun. While no bones were broken he was so severely bruised and shank up as to prevent him from getting about so Mr. Macklin concluded to break camp and being the two invalids home, the one weak and emaciated and the other done up in bandages. It is hoped that both gentleman will soon be all right, as the illness of one and the injuries of the other are not considered serious.

Matrimonial.

STAGG-KEENON — Mr. Thomas H. Stagg and Miss Bettie Keenon were quietly married at the residence of the bride's parent, on Washington street, at 6 o'clock Wednesday morning, Rev. J. McClusky Blayney, D. D., of the First Presbyterian Church, officiating. Only a few friends and relatives of the contracting parties were present, and the newly wedded pair left over the Kentucky Midland at 7 o'clock for a bridal trip to New York and other eastern cities.

Mr. George Salender has the contract on Thursday for his new storeroom on Second street to Messrs. Howell & Netherton, who will commence work at once and push the building to completion. The building of brick, one story high, will be cellar underneath.

Permanent Secretary Chosen.

The Board of Directors of the Young Men's Christian Association on Monday elected Mr. L. Jarod, of Chicago, as the permanent secretary of the Association, which position Mr. Jarod has accepted and entered actively upon the discharge of his duties. He has a temporary office in the house on Washington street formerly occupied by Mr. Dr. Green and is busily engaged in making preparations to begin work as soon as a permanent home is secured for the organization. Mr. Jarod was born in Switzerland but has been a resident of the United States since a small boy, and has had considerable experience in the work in Wisconsin. He is an energetic young man, zealous in his work and will leave no stone unturned to make the movement a success in this city.

Will Nominate To-day.

The Democratic primary to be held in this county to-day to nominate a candidate for Representative promises to be a red hot contest. Both Mr. Violett and Col. Taylor, the candidates, have made a lively canvass and when the votes are counted to-night the majority will not be very large. Both candidates seem confident of success and it will be a fight to a finish, and every voter in the county of that political faith will be rooted out and hustled to the polls before 4 o'clock this afternoon.

Births.

SHY—In this county, on Tuesday, July 30th, 1895, to Mr. A. Shy and wife, a daughter—Stella Zerelda; weight ten pounds.

Pea Ridge.

Quite a number of our people are attending the protracted meeting at Bridgeport Christian Church.

Misses Fannie and Pearl Seagrove, of Louisville, are visiting Mrs. Angrave.

Mr. Thompson Johnson was here during the week threshing the wheat crops of our farmers.

Mr. Stoop is working on his new house.

Miss Nannie Baker commenced school here last Monday week with twenty-eight scholars.

Rumor sent us the very unwelcome news last week that Dr. Owen Robinson had been shot. Our people are glad it is a mistake.

On the 20th the District Treasurer attended here at the schoolhouse to collect the tax levied for the school supplies. Such a very few came and paid that the trustees extended the time four weeks. All indebted will save expense by leaving the amount due with the Treasurer or the Chairman of the Board. Mr. Jim Tracy, as after the time set delinquents will have Sheriff Armstrong to settle with.

On Sunday the 21st, at 3 o'clock, a number of our people attended the baptism services near Conway's Mill of those who joined the church during the revival conducted by the Rev. Polsgrove at the school house on the Benson pike. After the baptizing our people went to Sunday school conducted by Mr. J. Staten and heard Mr. Polsgrove preach at night.

The blackberry crop is very slim but all our apple and pear trees have broken down with the weight of the fruit. Hauled to town they are worth ten and fifteen cents a bushel.

The scribe made the acquaintance of a railroader some time ago who had just lost his job because he did not have the right kind of religion. Quite right, anyone who hasn't the right religion ought to lose his job or get right. Being out of employment he will now have leisure time to hunt up and fasten on the right religion. Served him right. Meantime a little leisure might be spent by the boss on the question "Am I right?"

Dr. Reynolds visited Mr. Buttin's little daughter, Ida, last week who is very sick.

Miss Scott, of Texas, is visiting her uncle, W. M. Crutcher.

Mrs. Cull is Frankfort this week.

The opinion prevails here that if the Republicans do not take advantage of the great dissatisfaction that people express concerning Democratic rule, city, county, State and National, they had better shut up shop. The discontent is wider and further spread than you, Mr. Editor, would like to believe. Old Democrats have told the writer that a change of parties in this State would be very desirable and a looted treasury, tampered ballot box, with whole precincts thrown out, are just a few of the reasons given for the belief; there are plenty more. The Brinkbridge-Owens campaign, dull times and low prices of wheat are all discussed whenever people meet. If an old time Democratic majority is wanted the managers had better get out their soup kettles, jugs and oratory.

A very readable well-written article concerning the "Coxey Army" appeared in the Roundabout June 29th, giving an account of the cause that led to the formation of the army and the motives that influenced them in the march to Washington. Mr. Robbins believes that ignorance was the cause and recommends the public schools as a cure. Ignorance it most certainly was. Poor fellows, they did not know how little Congress cared for them; they had no idea of the cruel reception they would meet at the Capital. During the year 1844 the unemployed in the United States were numbered by the millions, causing an immense amount of distress. Various suggestions were made by the press and otherwise that the government should employ a large number of men by working them at very low wages on locks, canals, harbors, fortifications, &c., until times were better, and a petition to Congress was prepared and signed by hundreds of thousands stating the distress and asking relief. Realizing from experience that no attention would be paid to the petition, a large number of the unemployed, under the lead of Gen. Coxey, decided to carry the petition themselves to Washington to show the very urgent need by presenting themselves as a living petition to Congress. Arriving at Washington after a long weary march they found the Capital grounds closed against them. Climbing the fence they swarmed up the Capitol steps and cried for their members. The Speaker of the House came out and made a speech to them, of which he is now most heartily ashamed, for it was more like a despot speaking to his serfs than a Congressman addressing his fellow citizens. Not a word of sympathy for their distress or their long journey across the continent. He told them that they had no right there and treated them as if he owned the grounds and they were trespassers. Believing that every citizen had a right on the ground they proceeded to argue the matter, when the police were called for who clubbed and beat some and arrested others who were tried and convicted, some for carrying flags while one unfortunate was found guilty of walking on the grass. Published in all the American papers, flashed by cable, the story with much unfavorable comment upon American justice, appeared in the European press, one paper affecting not to believe the story as unlikely, cabled its American representative to investigate the matter and cable results, and when Crisp's speech, number and names of prisoners, charges against them, trial and punishment, with an account of their previous clubbing, was received, that paper was more mystified than before and professed inability to understand American customs, but pointed out the fact that there was but one country in the world whose citizens were punished for carrying their own flag or imprisoned for trespassing on their own domain, and that the punishment, namely, the clubbing first and the United States afterwards. When the army disbanded and scattered all over the States and told the story of their Washington reception, so many people sympathized with them that at the next election the political opponents of the party then in power were victorious by a majority so immense that it was called a landslide and caused national rejoicing. If the late Congress did one good, history is silent in the matter, while the state of the country during the last two years would answer the question as to whether it did any harm. It has the record of being the meanest legislative body that ever tried to govern a free people, and will only be remembered for the fact that while they were in session American citizens were clubbed and beaten for carrying their flag and walking on the grass. Let us hope that the time will be far distant when it will be necessary to call on these men to carry the flag and defend the government where they were so cruelly treated.
